and that Mrs. Napier, her father and her brother and other witnesses testified without contradiction on cross-examination to its entire untruth. The sole argument advanced in favor of treating this offense as a purely political one is that the writer of the article in Paris and Mr. Mylius in England, intended it as an attack upon a phase of a monarchical institution, not in justification of good morals and true religion, and that the crown in its proceedings treated it as a political offense.

No Clear Definition.
"I have not found a clear definition of 'political offense'." The accepted rule seems to be that, to constitute a political offense, it is necessary to show something in the nature of concerted action.

"The alleged crime lacked this character," the Secretary further said, "and was not part of a political controversy, an uprising or a common movement, but Mylius depended entirely upon his avowed motive or purpose to give his act the required political character."

"If such a contention is to be accepted," added Mr. Nagel, "there is no crime in the calendar which cannot be provided with the proper coloring by the offender himself."

CONTRACT AWARDED.
New York Firm Will Furnish Tobacco to Navy.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, January 16.—The Navy Department today awarded a contract for 125,000 pounds of plug tobacco to Martin Brothers of New York. It is understood that 125,000 pounds is all that will be purchased now.

While the bluejackets were industriously testing the tobacco in the most approved and effective manner, the Government was testing it chemically, making analyses of leaves and determining the amount of sand and other foreign matter in the tobacco. The chemical tests, together with the personal reports of the official chewers, were then collated and the tables a board of navy yard officials in New York made their recommendation to the department.

ANTITRUST MEASURE OF DRASTIC NATURE

Introduced in North Carolina Legislature by Representative Justive.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Raleigh, N. C., January 16.—In the House today Justice, of Guilford, introduced an anti-trust bill of most drastic character. It makes unlawful contracts or combinations or conspiracy in restraint of trade any person acting as agent of a corporation in violation of the Standard Oil cases that these offenses were not illegal unless they reasonably restrained trade. Justice's bill provides that any civil or criminal cases prosecuted under the provisions of the bill, if it is contended, the agreement or combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade is not reasonably so, that the burden shall be on those who maintain this position to prove affirmatively that they do not injure the business of any competitor or prevent any one from becoming a competitor because of fear of being injured by such combination or conspiracy.

The bill provides that all things declared to be illegal by the noted Reid Bill of 1907 shall be illegal and punished by fine and imprisonment.

There is provision that any person or corporation in or out of the State who allows or permits any agent or associate to violate the provisions of the bill shall be guilty of a crime, and damages for injury shall have treble the amount of the verdict. The bill confers upon the Attorney General powers similar to those possessed by the Department of Justice of the United States.

Kellum, of New Hanover, introduced a bill to put water power, electric and gas companies under rate of control of the Corporation Commission, the bill being modeled after the Massachusetts act.

In the Senate Hon. W. C. Newland, retiring as presiding officer, was presented with a handsome gold-headed cane by the pages and laborers. Senator Weaver introduced a bill to abolish the office of stenographer in the executive office of the Governor, combining it with executive clerk at a salary of $2,000, the same salary as private secretary. Senator Hobgood introduced bills to change the name of the Greensboro Female College to the Greensboro College for Women, and to authorize Guilford commissioners to erect a monument to the Confederate dead. Senator Thorn presented a bill to provide a home for needy wives and widows of the Confederate veterans.

Major L. W. Young, of Asheville, as Adjutant-General to succeed Adjutant-General Gordon Smith, who was recently appointed by Governor Kitchen to succeed the late General R. L. Leinster. General Young entered the military service in 1898, winning steady promotion.

Smuggled Madonna Stirs Art World of London.

London, January 17.—The surreptitious smuggling out of Italy, and the arrival in London of the painting supposed to be the famous Raphael picture, "La Madonna Della Quercia," created a sensation in the art world yesterday. The painting is to be exhibited in the well-lighted hall in the Hotel Cecil, and invitations to view it are to be sent to many interested persons.

The publication of the news brought a shower of letters to the Hotel Cecil from art lovers anxious for further information of the picture and its record, and from others, including several Italians, who wanted to know how such

MEMBERS OF FAMILY HAVE DOUBLE HEARTS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Easton, Pa., January 16.—A remarkable case of interest to the medical world has been discovered here of a mother and her three children all with double hearts. Whether the heart is divided into two parts, one on each side of the chest or whether there are two separate organs can not be said until after death of the subjects, but reliable surgeons and members of the Northampton Medical Society vouch for the diagnosis that these hearts all perform distinct and separate functions on both sides of the bodies.

Dr. James A. Morgenstern was called to the home of Berton Perkins on McCartney Street, to attend a child with chickenpox. He was amazed when he listened to the heart sounds to find that there were two hearts in the child. He first found the heart on the right side and then further examination revealed one on the left side also. He called the mother and questioned her and asked permission to examine the other two children and found that they exhibited the same phenomena. Mrs. Perkins consented to an examination of herself and the surgeon discovered that she, too, was similarly affected and he then called upon Dr. Sterling D. Shimer to verify the same and he confirmed the diagnosis.

national Smokeless Powder Company, who "devotes his entire time and attention to Washington business."

Get Rich Salary.
"When was with the company," Mr. Waddell explained, "they paid their vice-presidents $30,000 a year, and I presume he (Mr. Buckner) is getting a good rich salary and a liberal account for expenditures. They are as courteous as can be, and spend a good deal of money in that way."

"I recently," said Mr. Waddell, "have had a judicial monopoly created out of the Dupont Trust through the courtesy of Attorney-General Wickersham, which ratifies the word agreement and gives the exclusive sale of all foreign smokeless powder in the United States in the hands of the Dupont Company."

Mr. Waddell charged that there was a complete monopoly in the United States in ordnance and smokeless powder, in rifle and in shotgun smokeless powder, that he knew of but one independent mine blasting powder company and that the other six dynamite companies all had the same prices; that about eighty companies combined into the Dupont trust; and that for years, when the trust wants to drive competitors out of business, they reduce the price in that district and get their revenue from other sources.

Colonel Buckner, as vice-president of the Dupont Company, told the committee that the Dupont Company never had a lobby, that he was its only representative who makes any regular trips here except Major-General Charles E. Humphrey, formerly quartermaster-general of the army, who looks after such duties as getting information from the different government departments.

approve of one bank owning another. "As a rule," he said, "I am opposed to all holding companies."

"Because they lead to concentration, which under our law and under our conditions, should not be allowed," was Mr. Schiff's reply.

The witness declared that he did not object to the concentration in the hands of individuals, but he did object to corporation concentrating in one individual.

The First Monopoly.
"I believe in individual freedom," he said. "I believe the individual should be allowed to do his best. If he goes too far the laws of nature would interfere. The first great attempt at monopoly was at the time of the Tower of Babel. That fell of its own weight. Every individual monopoly will do the same when it reaches that point. The law of nature takes care of that and no law of man is required."

"But have you ever thought that would happen while this monopoly was growing and when it fell of its own weight?"

"No, I have never thought of that," said Mr. Schiff.
